

Please do not mandate any changes to Wisconsin's No-Call law. If any changes are to be made, please strengthen the federal regulations to exceed Wisconsin's law. Current Wisconsin law allows non-profit telemarketers. My personal preference would be to allow no unsolicited telemarketing calls. When I want something, I am perfectly capable of initiating the transaction. Telemarketers are a public nuisance who, left unchecked, will invade my privacy without regard to any standard of decency. With the current Wisconsin No-Call law, my family and I can enjoy a peaceful, uninterrupted dinner and evening. Without this law, we will disconnect the phone for the evening, depriving us of any connection with the outside world. Isn't this administration supposed to be pro-family?
